FAMILY ALBUM"

The Elizabethan

1965

Elizabethtown Area High School

Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania

Foreword

Some of life's most precious moments are spent reminiscing over the family album. It was the aim of the 1965 yearbook staff to compile such an album in the hopes of recording pleasant memories and thus tangibly preserve them forever in the yearbook.

The Senior Class is in the spotlight which is true for every annual. Hopefully, underclassmen, faculty, and administration alike, will remember nineteen hundred and sixty five as a memorable, productive year for our class and for themselves as well.

Nine men serving a growing purpose in a growing community; sacrificing time from their professional lives to make Elizabethtown's educational facilities pertinent to the citizenry; vetoing some proposals, yet approving many more, all leading to the betterment of the town; these are the men on our School Board.

Supervising Principal

message to seniors :

The Class of 1965 will be graduated at a time when thousands of persons are unemployed and when, strange as it may seem, an even larger number of positions are looking for qualified persons to fill them. All this means that the educational requirements of our working world are rising each year and that job openings for persons without special skills and training are approaching the vanishing point.

Your many friends and those who have been associated with you in your school work share your happiness as you complete your public school education. It is our hope that you will not say, "Now it is finished", but rather that you will enter into your adult years with the realization that learning will continue as long as life itself.

What should we wish for you . . . wealth, fame, a life free from hard work? These are doubtful blessings.

It is rather my hope that each of you will be employed in an occupation which you will find fascinating, that your happiness will come as a by-product as you forget yourself in serving the needs of people, that in a world of triviality you will have enough wisdom to select values which are meaningful, and that your faith in God will be sustained through all of the experiences of life which test it most severely.

Sincerely,

Principal

Philip K. Daubert

message to seniors :

There is nothing more important for the world, our nation, or you, than the pursuit of knowledge. Knowledge that will guide you toward success in your chosen occupation. Knowledge to give you understanding concerning the world and the world's people- the philosophy of the great and not so great nations of the world- our government, and an understanding of its policies, principles, and problems. Knowledge to evaluate political beliefs, public opinions, and how they influence, why and by whom, and the vision to see where they lead us. Knowledge to understand and appreciate our fellow man. Knowledge to give you the courage to stand alone, if necessary, in the defense of principle. Courage must be found in your pursuit of knowledge which will enable you to look deeper into your soul, thus bringing about stronger religious convictions and a nearness to God which will radiate to your children and your children's children. In this pursuit of knowledge, it is important to become acquainted with your Bible- which has been called a "Living Book, inseparable from the lives of all, as it is the record of our quest of God, and the good life".

Let each of you remember that all knowledge is interesting to a wise person and the knowledge of living a good life is interesting to all. Thorough knowledge carries you above selfish aims and inspires you to greater thoughts by which all mankind can profit. I wish each of you the best in your continuing pursuit of knowledge.

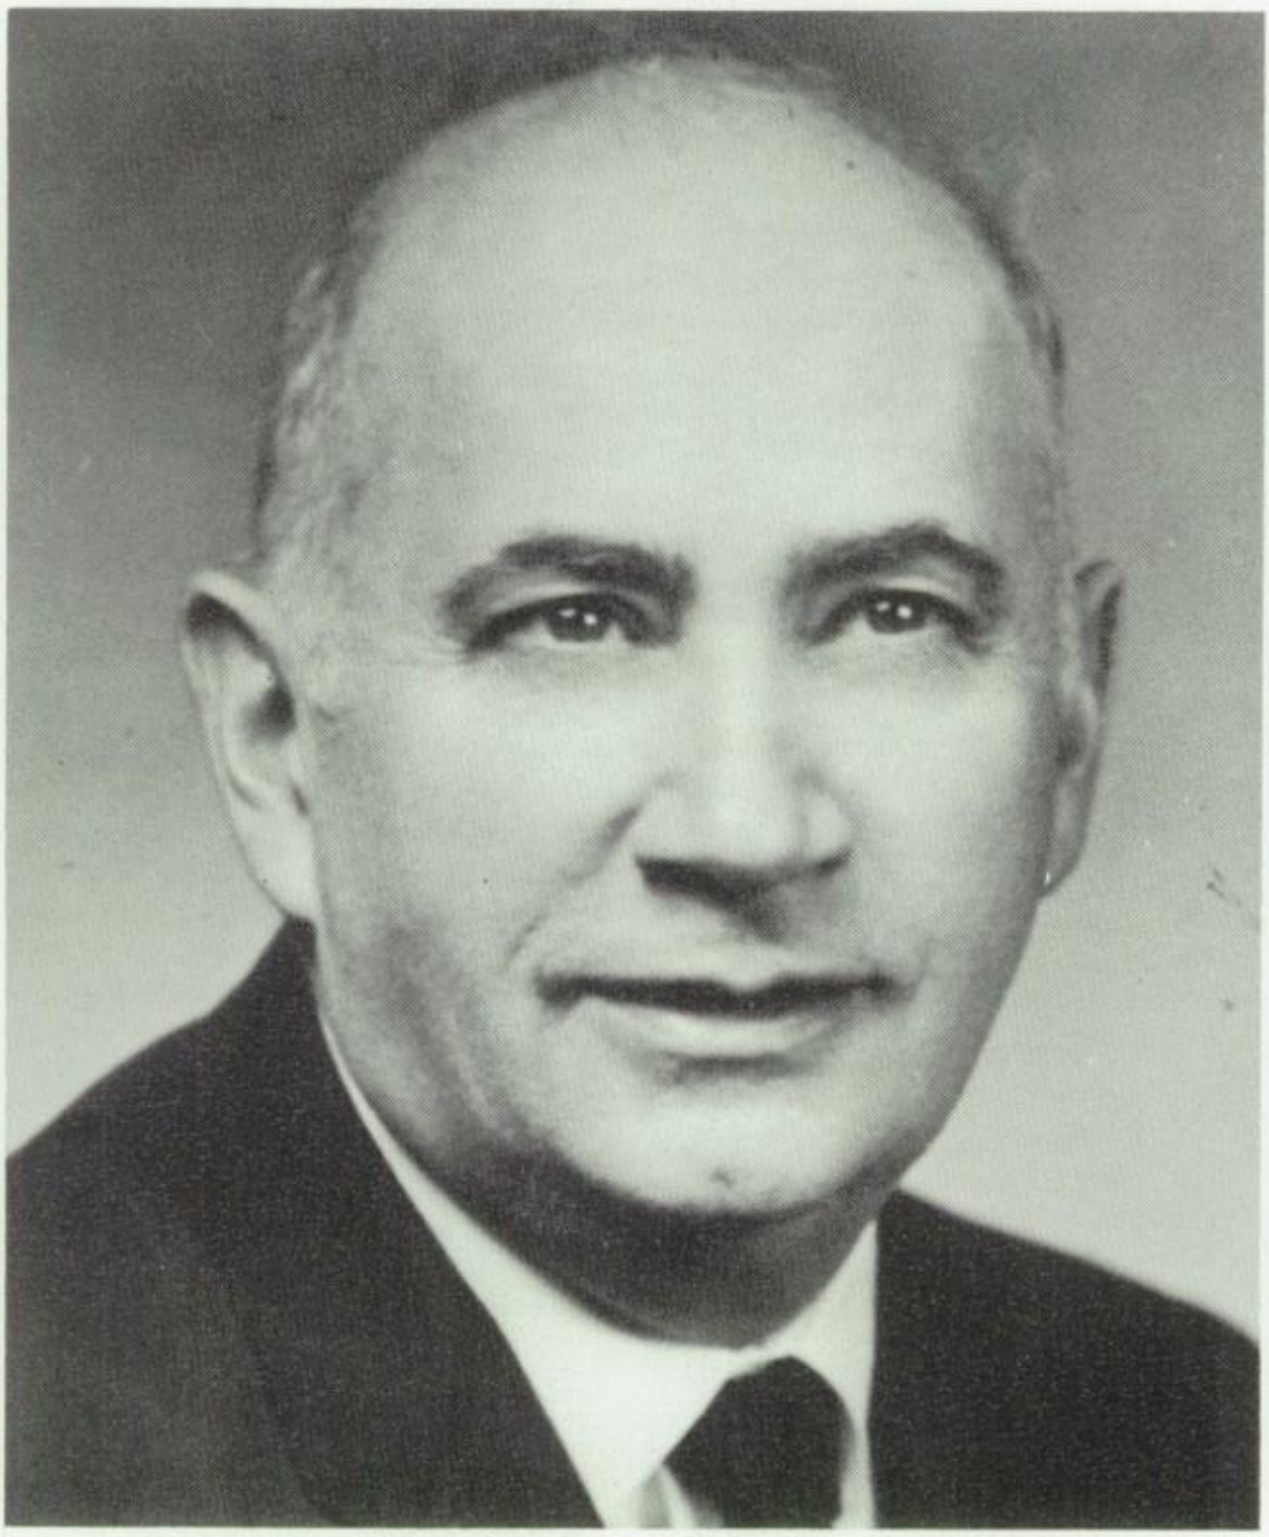
In Memorium -



Meredith J. Germer

QUIETLY - EFFICIENTLY - EFFECTIVELY

Meredith J. Germer worked with Administration, Faculty, and Student Body in the total effort to build a fine music curriculm in the Elizabethtown Area Schools. His understanding, patience, and skill were significant factors in the development of individual student talent and in the achievement of an excellence in group effort.

Somehow, Mr. Germer's long association with this school had made him to be thought of as one of the more permanent personalities in staff personnel. It is with a genuine sense of loss that we accept the fact that he will be no longer with us.

However, no force can expunge the living memorial to his achievements - the skills, understandings, and love of music instilled within the lives of innumerable persons with whom he worked.

Although poignant, memories will continue to be enriched by a life that was unassuming, yet great in character, for all who had learned to know him.

Science

It is most strange and wonderful that the intellects of we small creatures crawling on the surface of the earth; a minor planet of a second rate star, in a very ordinary galaxy, can reach out with our senses and minds to stars billions of miles away, to times thousands of million of years ago, to the particles that are the foundations of all things. With this great power of the mind are we not greater wonders than the atoms and the stars which fill our universe.

Science since the 1600's to the present has been occupied in ascertaining true facts, discovering the rules that connect them, and forming theories that account for those rules. The results are recorded for us in the historical contrasts of the 1600's with 1965. The effectiveness of the science that we practice today has made men believe they have found the best way of regarding the universe around them: yet in times past men also thought this and have been proved wrong. We must ever be on the alert to utilize the facts and theories obtained in such a dynamic world for the improvement of mankind and his planet. It is dangerous to become complacent in any age or discipline when change itself has been the father of advancement.

Class History

History of the Class of 1965

Peggy Hess - Historian

Twelve years ago, the class of '65 was nothing more than a fragmentation of beginners scattered throughout--- everywhere. Many attended the High Street Elementary Schools, others attended Millroad, Fairview, Rheems, or one-room country schools near Elizabethtown-- still others were spotted in more distant locales. Basic subjects included reading, writing, and arithmetic.

The first sense of class community spirit was effected when class members arrived in the seventh grade. Here they were assigned to sections to become an important part of a new program- that of a high school group.

Eighth grade was for the most part uneventful but it did serve as a prelude to the coming year- the freshman level- not precisely Junior High- and rushing things a bit- to be completely at home in Senior High. "Freshman"- the title had its effect. Ninth graders bubbled over with newly acquired status and doubtful authority. Yet again the footing was not permanent- ostentatious acceptance would come only when class jackets were worn- curricular choices were permitted by administrative and guidance personnel- and seventh, eighth, and ninth graders could be considered most definitely underclassmen.

Class officers were elected for the first time, class rings were ordered, and an educational field trip to Philadelphia, along with an assembly program became the hallmarks of distinction- "Tenth Graders were Somebody."

Eleventh grade must be set apart, not that it was an unusually awkward age- as depicted by bruises, broken bones from skating, football, hockey, basketball- but this was the year for the arrival of class rings, the presentation of three- one act plays- "Riders to the Sea", "Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton", and "Sorry----Wrong Number" placed the class of '65 in a leadership role. The marks of status were on the right or left hand (except in certain unique instances), and the record of achievement from a "different" class play arrangements were imprinted in the memories of parents and friends.

During April of the Junior Year, the class toured Washington, D. C. and visited points of academic interest, including The White House, The Washington Monument, The F.B.I. Building, The Lincoln Memorial, The Smithsonian Institute, Arlington Cemetery during the changing of the guard, and the grave of President Kennedy, Iwo Jima Memorial, The Naval Medical Building, and many other nationally and internationally famous historic and governmental centers.

Perhaps the highlight of the social aspect of the Junior Year was the Junior-Senior Prom, held in the Hershey Park Golf Club. The theme "Moonlight and Roses", was appropriate to the mood and the latter event, the "Post Prom Party", with its title, "Midnight Madness", appealed to a smaller number of students.

Finally, the time came when every member of the class could stand proudly and say, "I'm a Senior." These were exciting, yet frightful words. To each student, it meant the future was now his to accomplish. It was realized that school days and this last year of school particularly were to end one phase of life and to begin another. Each student did his best to make the senior year the most important and the best remembered. "The Importance of Being Earnest" was the first major event of the year. Later the "Blue and White" election was to include all members of the class in a spirited campaign which would present some interesting political angles.

Emotional reaction to the termination of school life was not apparent until the time of preparation for a class night program. Most seniors were made to realize that at this point, seniors were working together on a class project for the very last time. Following graduation, the "Class of 1965" again would become a fragmentation of people geographically, yet not without a sense of community spirit- the bond- which was fashioned imperceptibly throughout the Elizabethtown Area High School days and which would remain forever- a unique tie- invisible yet strong- to hold each person- a prisoner of memory- a prisoner willing to wear the number in humility and pride- "1965".

Almost- but not quite- a spirit of resignation would tend to numb the emotions of many classmates. Graduation exercises would bring a stark reality- 1965'ers are on their own- by edict of the Board of Education- 1965'ers- mature- responsible- productive people.

The Junior-Senior Prom, with Juniors hosting Seniors- the class trip to the New York World's Fair-Class Night- and even Baccalaureate were good conditioners- bringing the class together in a bit of fellowship, establishing greater rapport- easing tensions, yet utilizing the group approach to face the momentous event- the termination of twelve years of growing mature together.

Baccalaureate was held in the high school auditorium on Sunday evening, May 30, at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Dr. Nevin H. Zuck's theme, "Blessed are the Misfits," was a bit unusual, yet challenging.

The Commencement exercise on Thursday evening, June 3rd, at 8:00 p.m. brought a paradox of emotions- smile- or weep- do both- at the same time? Yes! Wanting to go back- anticipating the future- at the same time? Yes! Somehow this was right- somehow administrators, faculty, parents, friends with a matter-of-factness- yet with an understanding mien seemed to accept it all with- "It was bound to happen- it had to happen- now accept this fact- you are now a part of us- put your shoulder to the harness- we can move forward together." An objective had been achieved.

SANDRA HIPPLE

SARA DIMELER

AUDREY BRENNER

"When death strikes down the innocent and young, for every fragile form from which he lets the panting spirit free, a hundred virtues rise, in shapes of mercy, charity, and love, to walk the world and bless it."

Audrey Brenner
Sara Dimeler

We tend to close a gap in our large circle when a void is present; but we find that so permanent a loss is hard to forget. We take time to honor these girls, and their memory which will continue with us. "My sun sets to rise again."

Wrestling

Wrestling in E.A.H.S. has grown considerably since it first was seen on our floors five years ago. With the able spurring of coach Jackson, the mat-men finished third in the Lancaster County league with a record of twelve wins and two losses. The coming year holds great promise for the squad, with sophomore John Miller, who this year reached the regionals. A good show by a great team.

"Schoolmate"
From Ceylon

In one of the finest World Cultural Instructional Programs in which the class of 1965 was to participate - Peter Girard of Ceylon was the central figure.

Not only did Peter help us toward greater understanding of our Asian neighbors way of life, but he won our respect and friendship by his wholesome regard for the principles which we profess to uphold.

As his smile indicates, Peter Girard was personable - and from his knowledge of all phases of his country's activities - his command of our language - his ability to adapt to our customs, food, and activities - we conclude that Peter is quite brilliant.

Appreciation can become a mutual experience when relationships are brought to the personal level.

Versatility - Enthusiasm - Eagerness to learn - characterize this informal snapshot of a classroom experience.
